Dr. Mohler is The Ohio State University's Senior Associate Dean for Research, Director of the Dorothy M. Davis Heart & Lung Research Institute, Chair of the Department of Physiology and Cell Biology, and Professor in the Department of Medicine. In addition to many other designations, Dr. Mohler is an internationally recognized cardiovascular scientist whose research in the field of abnormal heart rhythms and heart failure has resulted in the discovery and diagnosis of five different human diseases. He was attracted to Ohio State by the opportunity to create new platforms for translational research by forming teams of experts from diverse clinical and scientific backgrounds—resulting in groundbreaking research discoveries in cardiovascular medicine and several other human diseases.

Our group is so excited to be working with Dr. Mohler and helping fund his team's heart failure research through the "Courtney Williams Fund in Heart Failure Research" at the OSU Foundation. We are excited to learn about the molecular blueprints for heart failure and the data models related to the progression of the disease.
